

普林斯頓留學考試輔導機構

Do You Have:

- Amazing test scores on the SAT or any other standardized test such as the ACT, GRE, GMAT, LSAT or MCAT?
- A strong background in math and science?
- Experience teaching academic English skills?
- Experience working with ESL students?
- A strong commitment to helping students achieve their goals?
- A desire to develop professionally as an instructor and teacher?

Teach for The Princeton Review Taiwan for the summer of 2010!

If so, The Princeton Review Taiwan, a franchise of the U.S.-based The Princeton Review, Inc., has teaching and tutoring opportunities available for you this summer in Taipei, Hsinchu, Taichung and Kaohsiung!

Benefits

- Starting pay rates of NT$650 – NT$800 per teaching hour (based on experience)
- Approximately 27-35 teaching hours per week (June-August), primarily weekdays
- Comprehensive, paid training and Princeton Review certification
- Excellent curriculum, lesson plans, and challenging materials
- The opportunity to pursue full-time, year-round contract employment

Minimum Requirements

- Undergraduate or graduate degree
- SAT minimum test scores in the 95th percentile – Applicants can take a diagnostic test if he/she has not taken the SAT before
- Native-speaker level English
- Be in training late May or early June

Preference Given To

- Holders of Taiwanese passports or I.D.
- Native or non-native speakers of Mandarin
- Applicants with teaching experience

Please contact Ben Redhead for more information. Apply between January 10 - February 10 2010. Send a copy of your resume and SAT test scores to: benjamin@princetonreview.com.tw.

Apply Now! We look forward to hearing from you!